Salt Lake Speech Shows America Holds Record In Debt Reduction

By Associated Press
Salt Lake City, Utah—President Harding outlined here Tuesday night what the federal government has accomplished in decreasing taxes and the public debt and made a plea for action along similar lines by the states, municipalities and counties.

RELIEVES BURDEN

Mr. Harding did not take up in his address any contemplated administration program for tax revision in the coming year. He did say, however, that the federal government was working under a program which "involves extinguishing a half billion of the public debt each year," and as for the payments which the British government will make under the British-American debt settlement "will correspondingly relieve the burden upon American taxpayers."

BRITISH DEBT

The British debt settlement the executive vent on has been acclaimed all over the world as one of the most notable and successful financial accomplishments ever recorded. He added that aside from reducing the burden of American taxpayers the settlement had been one of the "most reassuring events since the armistice," coming as it did at a time of "widespread uncertainty and misgiving throughout the world of business everywhere."

Blaine And Ridgway Continue Dispute On Bribery Implication

HARDING TAKES MORAL PLEDGE OF ABSTINENCE

Executive Sets Example To Nation In Attempt To Induce Observance Of Dry Law

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923 by the Post Pub. Co.
Rawlins, Wyo.—President Harding has become a total abstainer. He meant literally the speech he delivered at Denver, appealing to the people of America to give up strong drink even though their stocks were lawfully acquired before the eighteenth amendment and Volstead act were adopted. Mr. Harding it was learned Tuesday feels very deeply that as chief executive of the nation he should set an example of restraint although there is no law against drinking liquor one has legally acquired, and Mr. Harding violated no law in taking an occasional drink in the White House.

REFUSES MOIST GIFTS

It has become known that in the last several months the president has refused gifts from close personal friends and has told them he meant to conform to the implications of the law as well as its specific obligations. Since the Harding administration began, no liquor has ever been served at the table for official guests. There has been some gossip that personal friends would drop in at the White House or meet the president at the golf links and offer a drink from a flask very much as might happen in the offices of senators and representatives, but while Mr. Harding has since early March days enjoyed a sociable drink, he has had no regrets about practicing self denial for he believes the greater good to be accomplished nationally by a strict observance of prohibition more than makes up for the indulgence.

CLASS RIVALRY

Close reading of the President's speech at Denver will reveal that he feels very keenly the rivalry of classes in America, the resentment of the working people over the fact that the rich can secure all the liquor they want irrespective of price. What Mr. Harding desires of course is that there always will be available through one channel or another, some supply that cannot be tapped by the wealthy. Mr. Harding appeals in the hope that they will voluntarily abstain from violating the law in purchasing liquor, and that they will either destroy what they have or fail to renew their supply when it is exhausted.

FEARS PRECEDENT

The president thinks the very security of American institutions depends on the attitude that the wealthy folks of the land take toward the Volstead law. If one law can be ignored, and an amendment held in contempt he fears the whole structure will collapse. As for himself, the president has taken the matter to heart, and while the public hasn't known it, nevertheless it is a fact that for some time Mr. Harding has been abstaining and that he means to keep his household dry and will refrain even when away from the White House accepting the invitations of friends, or their gifts.

MORAL PLEDGE

His own prediction is that the longer prohibition is in effect the greater the likelihood that the change in the law will be in the direction of effective enforcement rather than relaxation but even if the sentiment of the nation were to swing to a 275 per cent beer the chances are that such a change would follow a period of absolute drought so far as strong drink is concerned. Instead of an era of continued hoodlegging of workers that seems to be the trend of the president's mind at present so long as the Volstead law is on the statute books the president himself will set the example of the nation in refraining from any pre-Volsteadian drink or any from his friends in the intimacy of the White House circle. Mr. Harding has taken the pledge not in written form, but with the conscience, and the time may not be far off when he will appeal to the nation to do likewise.

SMOOTH STRANGER TRIMS LANDLADIES

Two keepers of boarding houses were fleeced out of small amounts of money and out of pay for lodging and meals by a smooth tongue of a clever stranger. The stranger, according to George T. Prim, chief of police Sunday night, had procured supper and room from an east side boarding house keeper, giving him name as Oglesby. The next morning he remained for breakfast and then secured the loan of $1.40 from his landlady to pay for parcel post he said he expected. He told her he was expecting a check. The stranger took the money and disappeared Monday night. He obtained supper from another boarding house, giving his name as Omsby, and next morning appeared for breakfast and in that place he wanted "change" for a $5 bill. He took the change, put it in his pocket and left and has not been seen since. The police are looking for him and are warning other boarding house keepers to be wary of the stranger.

RUNAWAY AUTO IS DAMAGED WHEN IT DROPS INTO RAVINE

Several Accidents Happen
Tuesday To Cars But Nobody Is Injured

Automobile accidents were frequent Tuesday although none of them was disastrous. In most cases one or both of the principals were unidentifiable.

Robert A. Abendroth stopped his Studebaker car in front of Martin Van Rybin's residence at 940 Packard street Tuesday evening with the intention of making a call and had barely reached the porch when the car started of its own accord and after crossing the street went over the embankment into a ravine. After several hours' work it was gotten out with the aid of a block and tackle. The running gear was badly damaged.

While driving on Wednesday, Second street, a car was waiting for the Lake street drawbridge to close Tuesday and to drive south on that street, his Chevrolet automobile was struck in the rear by a passenger automobile proceeding in the same direction. The driver of his car was bent. The driver of the large car refused to divulge his name.

The Ford car of Emil Glass, 485 Teulash-st., was also struck in the rear by a Nash automobile, when Glass was driving east on College-ave at Appleton-st Tuesday. The unidentified driver was approaching from the south on Appleton-st and turning east on College-ave. The tail lamp on Glass' car was broken while the bumper of the Nash car was bent.

A report was made to the police station that an unidentified bicycle rider was struck by an automobile passing a street car at the corner of Bell and Pacific-sts Tuesday evening.

CIRCUS PLEASING TO LARGE CROWD

Riding Act Ranks Among Best
Circus Features In Country

Walter L. Main's circus here Tuesday was well attended, considering that announcement was made several days ago that the Ringling Bros show will be here next month. And the crowd which attended was well rewarded. While the performance contained little that was new nor is it to be ranked with some of the circus in magnitude, yet the acts were excellent. The worth family of equestrians presented an act that probably has never been excelled here. It is easily one of the biggest features in all American circuses. The group included a slack-rope walker and a group of tumblers. It was a good show, marred near the end by spectators who left their seats before the program was over. It not only was extremely impolite to the circus people but an annoyance to spectators who remained in their seats.

One of the acrobats was injured while he was struck on the head by a flying pulley after he had completed his act. He was carried out of the main tent.

HAIR-BRAINED STUNT
People on North Elm-st. held their breath Tuesday evening when a hair-brained young fellow on a bicycle, with a young girl sitting on the handlebars, cut curley cues with his bike as he rode down the street. Several times he came within inches of spilling himself and his passenger. It was hard to determine from the girl's screams whether she was enjoying the experience or was thoroughly frightened.

DOG STOPS ARGUMENT

Sunday afternoon at Brighton Beach I spied two ladies dividing the remnants of a picnic supper. Their party had pertained to and each one politely insisted that the other one should take the remaining string of weiners about fifteen or so. While they argued as to who could make the best use of them, a young and hungry Alameda settled the question by grabbing the whole string and carrying it to a convenient place for his picnic lunch. The expression on their faces was surely worth seeing.

HOSPITAL COMPLETED AT COST OF NEARLY $700,000

EVERY MODERN CONVENIENCE IN NEW BUILDING

Nearly a Mile Of Corridors In Structure To Be Dedicated Tuesday

When St. Elizabeth hospital is completed, its cost in round numbers will be practically $700,000, which is more than twice the total amount raised in the campaign by citizens of the Fox river valley two years ago. While the hospital building is not the largest in the United States, there will not be a better one, according to J. H. Temme, building superintendent for committee in charge.

The dedication program will take place at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon at the south entrance of the hospital. The Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop of the Green Bay diocese, will be the principal speaker. Every person in the Fox river valley who wishes to make an inspection of the building, which is generally conceded to be the best equipped in the state, is urged to be present for the program and to make the inspection later in the afternoon. The building will be open for inspection on July 4 from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 6 o'clock. Beginning Thursday, the building will be occupied for hospital purposes and no more general inspections will be possible.

325 FEET LONG

The length of the building is 325 feet, which makes the corridors on the five floors more than a block long. The width of the building averages about 60 feet with one wing 83 feet wide and the other 110 feet. There are 250 rooms in the structure, not including the closets which open off each room, nor the storage space in the attic. The height of the building is slightly more than 68 feet from the ground.

Opening off the corridors, which measure altogether about a mile including the block-long and shorter hallways are 226 doors. In the entire building there are 538 doors which means twice that number of glass door knobs. There are no metal door knobs in the structure.

TERRAZA FLOORS

The windows, including 74 in the loft, number 462 in the entire building. The window sills for all of these are made of terrazzo of the same quality as the floors. Every floor in the building is terrazzo. In most large buildings, only the corridors are terrazzo, while the rooms are floored with cement or some other covering.

In all of the 200 patients' rooms there are two electric light fixtures, one a ceiling light for over the bed and one wall bracket. In the other rooms, lights are placed where most convenient. A signal light also is placed over each door in connection with the signal system which summons the nurses at the call of the patient without the ringing of bells.

NEW FURNITURE

Although some of the furniture from the present building will be used, 140 hospital beds were ordered and installed. Besides the hospital beds there will be 12 nurses' couches and 15 chaise lounges. The furniture also includes 64 princess dressers, 19 larger dressers and 100 combination table cabinets and 60 regular tables.

Electric clocks are being installed with the master instrument on the first floor and 16 other program clocks throughout the building. These will also have a call bell system in connection.

Besides the large kitchens in the basement, which are equipped with every possible convenience, there is a diet kitchen on each floor in connection with the serving rooms. The basement has a dining room for the sisters, for the nurses and for the hospital help. It also has large storage space and a preserve closet. Each diet kitchen is equipped with a refrigerator cooled by the central ice plant. Ample space has been planned on each floor and in each department for storing materials.

NEENAH GUARD TO BE DEMOBILIZED

Company H, 127th infantry, the Menasha unit of the Wisconsin National guard with whom Appleton guards have soldiered, will be out of existence after July 1. It is included in the 23 Wisconsin companies that are to be demobilized to curtail expenses of the national guard in Wisconsin. Notice of the demobilization was received last week by Capt. W. B. Winch. Men of the company will receive their honorable discharges and pay checks on June 28.

GET DRINK LICENSES NOW, CITY CLERK WARNS

Proprietors of soft drink parlors desiring licenses to sell non-intoxicating beverages must present their application at once if they expect to operate after July 1, according to E. L. Williams, city clerk. All old licenses expire on June 30. The police and license committee of the common council will probably meet the latter part of this week to consider the applications.

Closing Of Lawrence Gives Uncle Sam Rest From Laundryman Role

Uncle Sam has played laundryman to thousands of students of Lawrence college, the local business colleges and Appleton students at the University of Wisconsin, Marquette university, Oshkosh normal school and other institutions, ever since he went into the parcel post business.

The patron saint of America doesn't exactly bend his back over a washboard; his laundry activities consist of carrying soiled clothes of boy and girl students and transient working people to the laundry, which is more often than not "home and mother," and bringing them back fresh and clean.

It is a real sizeable business too. Although his deputies in the Appleton postoffice have never kept books on the business, yet both clerks and parcel post carriers agree that the volume of laundry bags constitutes about 25 per cent of the whole parcel post here—and the parcel post business of the Appleton postoffice is enormous, so great that lately a third delivery truck had to be added to keep it moving.

Now that the college doors are closed and the folk behind them have gone, a letup has been noticeable in parcel post as in all other branches of local postal service, even as the merchants, hotels and other establishments are feeling the absence of college folk. But on heavy days, the parcel post carriers will deliver as much as three truckloads of laundry to one of the Lawrence college dormitories alone. Each load contains about 150 laundry packages.

The typical laundry bag is a cardboard box 4½ by 12 by 20 inches in size, covered with canvas. It usually has two flaps, one bearing the sender's address and the other giving the address of the "laundry." Sometimes it is a commercial laundry; more often it is home where mother does the work or has some laundress come to the house to do it.

Students effect a considerable saving through the year by sending their laundry home at an expense of 13 to 15 cents, if directed to the first and second zones, and a small additional sum, if their homes are further removed. Uncle Sam and mother apparently do a good job, for some students send their wash a very great distance. Some also have two laundry bags and thus keep one in the mails all the time. Mail service, they have found, is certain and expeditious. There is no laundry to be mixed with another's. The Appleton postoffice has never received a complaint about laundry lost or misrouted except in one case where the student wrote a wrong address.

It is evident that the postal department nets a substantial revenue from this laundry service; it amounts to several thousand dollars a year. The profit to the student is a saving in spending money. Besides the box usually contains something else in addition to laundry, and perhaps that is another reason why laundry is sent so widely in the mails. When the case is packed by mother, there is often a vacant corner with just room enough for a little cake, doughnuts, a glass of jelly, a box of candy, or some other knickknack worth its weight in gold.

PUBLIC FIREWORKS MEAN FIRE SAFETY

Assistant Fire Chief Warns Against Careless Handling Of Devices

While July 4 is a safer and saner holiday than formerly, it still holds forth many dangers to life and property, according to Nicholas Reider, assistant chief of the fire department, who is in charge during the illness of Chief G. P. McGillan.

"My idea of a safe and sane Fourth is a fireless one," said the assistant chief. The innocent looking sparklers, paper balloons and explosive fireworks handled by incompetent persons are particularly branded as fire hazards.

The safest way to stage a pyrotechnic display is to make the occasion a community affair, as the American legion is doing this year, and have the firemen at hand with extinguishing apparatus for any emergency. It is possible that such a provision may be made.

The assistant chief called attention to the storing of quantities of fireworks and other explosives in small retail stores not equipped for such storage or legally entitled to handle combustibles.

"Toy balloons using kerosene soaked waste are also a danger," he said, "since they may fall on wooden shingle roofs and cause fires. The so-called sparkler looks like a harmless plaything, but is really dangerous. The sparks themselves are not harmful, but the wire core holding the sparkling material becomes white hot and so will ignite inflammable matter. Sparklers caused many deaths last year; the victims were usually young girls wearing flimsy summer dresses."

SCHOOL DISTRICTS WILL HOLD ANNUAL MEETINGS JULY 2

Treasurers And One Clerk To Be Elected—Fourth To Vote On Junior H. S.

Annual school meetings of the various Appleton districts will be held at 7:30 Monday evening, July 2. Treasurers will be elected to succeed G. E. Buchanan, First district; Carl G. Seer, Second district; William Fountain, Third district; and John Lowe, Fourth district. A clerk will be elected to succeed Joseph Mayer of the Third district, who was appointed several months ago to fill the unexpired term of George Lange, resigned. So far as known no candidates have announced themselves for any of the positions.

An important matter will come up for disposal in the Fourth district, that of installing a junior high school. Before this can be done permission has to be granted by the taxpayers. The plan is part of the junior high school program. The annual budget will be adopted in each district.

NEARBY FISHING BEST IN YEARS, SAY ANGLERS

Fishermen report that some of the best fishing in years is to be had in nearby streams. Local anglers have made expeditions to favorite bays and reefs in Lake Winnebago, and returned with excellent catches. A mess of pike was caught near the Winnebago-coo asylum last week. Fish of different variety have been caught in great number recently at Chain o' Lakes and in northern lakes also.

THREE BANDS TO FURNISH MUSIC HERE ON JULY 4

Oshkosh Fife And Drum Corps Also Engaged For Celebration

Music on July 4 will be furnished by three bands and a fife and drum corps. It has been announced by committees in charge of the huge American legion celebration here. Arrangements have been completed with the Seymour and Kimberly bands and the Oshkosh fife and drum corps to assist the 121st field artillery band in furnishing music.

The Seymour band will lead the exodus from the park to Armory G where the afternoon prize fights will take place and also will play in the parade and at the park. The 121st field artillery band will furnish music in the park after the parade until 6 o'clock when the Kimberly band will go on the stand. All three bands will play in the parade.

Oshkosh's fife and drum corps is expected to lead the American legion section of the parade at 11 o'clock in the morning. Music during the fight program will be provided by the Seymour band.

Kimberly band had arranged for a picnic at Kimberly on July 4 but postponed the celebration at the request of the legion officials. A concession will be operated by the band at Pierce park.

The program committee, with George R. Wettengel as chairman, met Monday morning to discuss details for the day. Other members of the committee are H. G. Thomas, H. P. Buck and Don Dickinson.

BUSHEY COLLEGE MAY BE MOVED TO NEENAH

Bushey Business college, Appleton which recently disposed of its building to the Loyal Order of the Moose, may locate in Neenah. Representatives of that institution visited in Neenah last week with a view of seeking an available site. Several such locations are understood to be in prospect there, and negotiations for one of them may be closed soon, according to word received from Neenah.

THE HUMAN ELEMENT IN INDUSTRY

IN BUSINESS there is no such thing as independence. Business is part of the social fabric where every individual is, directly or indirectly, dependent upon every other individual. The stockholder is dependent upon the employee, and the employee on the stockholder, while both are dependent upon the public who buy and consume the products they manufacture.

Stockholders and employees also are consumers. In the case of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) more than eight thousand of the employees are part owners in the business.

With a keen realization of this interdependence, the company, the management and the employees practice that sound Yankee fairness in dealing with one another, which makes for better understanding and industrial harmony.

The individual employee is a citizen just as the individual stockholder is a citizen. Whether or not he is a good citizen often depends upon whether he is busy, happy and successful in the business which engages his attention.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of its employees; they are good citizens, law-respecting, thrifty, industrious and happy in their industry. Experience has proved that this type of citizen makes the best employee. The employee who is zealous in the performance of his duty, who strives to give the public as well as the Company good service, is a citizen worthy of the name.

It is a policy of this Company to pay its workmen a good wage. Also it is the policy of this Company to promote and encourage "personal contact" between the employees and the management.

This open-door policy of fair dealing has resulted in uniform enthusiasm and loyalty on the part of the employees, and because of it the Company is better able to fulfill, in a satisfactory manner, its obligations to the people of the Middle West.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S TRIP
Descriptions by regular press correspondents of President Harding's fifteen-thousand-mile tour indicate that the people are glad of the opportunity to pay tribute to the chief executive of these United States. Reading in the substance of the articles wired by correspondents to their papers, the parts of the president's addresses in which the people manifest the keenest interest are those which treat of our own domestic affairs. The audiences are quiet and generally unexpressive on references to international questions.
We should not be surprised at the public's attitude. The people feel that they are competent to reach decisions regarding home problems, as they are living in these problems, which are vital to their prosperity and happiness. Naturally they are concerned in these problems directly. Audiences have displayed more or less indifference to the president's discussion of the world court. Why should they not be indifferent? The subject has been debated to such an extent that the average man is lost in the labyrinth of argument.
As to the president's expedition, it will strengthen him with the public. The people expect the chief executive not only to supervise their business from the executive mansion, but to stand before them and give them a holiday. This is a republican government. The people want to see their administrative head once in a while.
The president is saying better thoughts than those bearing on the world court. What the public needs to hear are statements such as he is making for return to party government. Both the old parties have been representing special interests and groups and the proposed new ones represent special groups. It is time the public should be reminded that republicanism can exist only by party responsibility and action which is representative of all classes.

WISEING UP TO ETNA
The world's oldest news item has erupted again. Mount Etna first wrote a story into world annals back in the later pliocene period, which was, if you have studied H. G. Wells, even before the glaciers came down and made pre-historic man drop his stone hatchet and catch a dinosaur southward. Only the geologist, however, can read the vast hieroglyphics of the growing volcano in those days.
The most remarkable thing about Etna is the way the human race has reacted to it. News writers like Thucydides—a news writer of those times would be called a historian today—chronicled eruptions of Etna back in the eight and fifth centuries B. C., and apparently people have been running away from them for a much longer time than that. On the average, the mountain has boiled up every five years, yet the ground round about is so marvelously fertile that people have lived and raised crops and herds under the very shadow of the great cone as far back as runs the record of man.
Philosophies toward Etna have gradually changed. Today no one believes, like the Greek poet Pindar, that Zeus plucked the mountain down upon the giant Typhon, or that Hephaestus and the Cyclops have their workshop underneath. The superstitious populations which used to take Etna's eruptions religiously and got buried in the bargain have been succeeded by a wiser folk who have studied its ways and prepared to depart and thwart it. Perhaps some time the great mountain will be too quick for them, but the eruption of 1923 has developed no loss of life and has been distinctly a track victory for the Sicilians.

A PRETTY GOOD YEAR
The North American wheat crop—on paper—is nearly 130,000,000 bushels below last year's total of 1,245,000,000. Unfavorable weather through the winter, and the long spring drouth, are to blame. The latest government estimates are well below the ten-year average.
But you never can tell. June conditions have been ideal in most sections, and both winter and spring plantings are responding in a way that offers every encouragement. The department of agriculture looks for a yield per acre at least a bushel above that of 1922, while other crops which are occupying a considerable part of last season's wheat acreage all appear to promise well.

This is not, it seems, to be a bumper year, and our wheat surplus for export will be materially reduced. There is, however, nothing disturbing in this outlook. The farmer should get better prices for his wheat, and he will have more of other crops to sell in a market stimulated by general prosperity.
The fact of the matter is that 1923 is going to be a pretty good year all the way round, and we might as well admit it.

SNAKES AND TOADS
Ancient prejudices are hard to overcome. Children instinctively try to kill all snakes because, for countless generations, their ancestors have regarded snakes as their enemies. Some kinds of snakes always were man's enemies, and are yet, but their number is insignificant in comparison with the species that are friendly and beneficial. In most localities there are no poisonous snakes, but only snakes which destroy rodents that would destroy man's food and property.
The prejudice against toads is harder to understand. It may come from the fact that the toad is ugly. But certainly his character and function in nature's scheme are not ugly. In the early spring he sings, beautifully. The rest of the season he busies himself devouring such harmful little pests as cutworms, gypsy moths, tent caterpillars, army worms, brown-tailed moths, houseflies and rose-chafers.
In England gardeners have long appreciated the usefulness of toads, and have bought them by hundreds to install in their gardens. American gardeners are just beginning to do likewise. It is a long step, though, from professional appreciation to teaching boys and girls not to throw stones at hop-toads.

VICTORIES
Smallpox may be said to have been conquered. By means of concentrated attention over a long period of years, tuberculosis has been put on the run. The use of insulin for diabetes is meeting with much success. The recent gift of the Rockefeller institute of over $100,000, divided among a dozen or so great hospitals, for the furtherance of study along this line, means that it will not be long before such treatment is thoroughly understood and knowledge regarding it widely spread.
Cancer still resists. Much has been learned concerning it. Surgery, taken promptly, before it gets into the lymphatic system, works thousands of practical cures. But its cause is still unknown. Every victory on other fronts, however, gives hope that before long the medical profession will get over the top to rout this most dangerous, hard-fought enemy.

TODAY'S POEM
By Berton Bralley
PRACTICALLY EXTINGUISHED
If you've never found your work a trifle zestless,
As you felt a little longing for the trail;
If you've never known a fever that is restless,
And a sense of growing moribund and stale;
If you haven't ever thought you'd like to ramble,
Leaving everything behind that you have known,
Dropping all the safe-and-sane stuff for a gamble,
Rucking everything and anything you own;
If you've always been entirely calm and steady,
With the firmness of a lighthouse on a rock,
If the springtime hasn't ever made you heady,
If your pulses beat as certain as a clock;
If no silly, roving madness ever thrills you,
If your sanity and prudence are your guides,
And no thought of breaking traces ever fills you,
If you're just as safe to count on as the tides;
If you've planned your life with absolute acumen
And you've never deviated, not an inch;
If you're undoubtedly a useful man or woman,
And to bet upon your progress is a cinch;
If no wild and woolly notions ever harry you,
You can pride yourself on being cool of head,
But they really ought to take you out and bury you,
For although you may not know it—you are dead!

THE DANGER OF HAVING CONCUSSION
The mythical "brain fever" of the novelist is by no means obsolete. I encountered a fresh case of it in an otherwise fairly satisfactory murder story only the other day, rather the unsophisticated author threatened one of his characters with "brain fever" if the luckless character was excited or annoyed in any way. Heroes are devoted to the old time novels seldom reached a furious pitch. They when the emotion failed to develop "brain fever" did this as headily as they swooned out of difficult situations. There was great days for authors!
In one way it is regrettable that "brain fever" has become generally known as meningitis and that meningitis is a matter of germs getting into the skull and somehow and infecting the lining of the skull and covering of the brain. An ugly thought—for a hero or heroine under emotional stress. The germs of meningitis are commonly conveyed in the spray given off from nose and mouth of a talking person who is a carrier. So that accounts for the brain fever.

Concussion is about as mysterious and impressive to the lay mind today as "brain fever" was to the old time novel reader. Just what this concussion is I am unable to define or describe very closely. It is something like Conan Doyle's ectoplasm. It is rather palpable only to the elect. Concussion is the vague, anxious, uncertain stage between the shock following a head injury and the coma or unconsciousness which occurs from fracture of the skull or from hemorrhage within the skull and pressure of the blood clot upon the brain. Concussion may well be classified with nervous breakdown and a heavy cold—ailments gained by submitting to a concussion for shock. The shock following an injury to body or limb is precisely the same condition as the shock following an injury to the head. Why drag in a confusing and sometimes seriously misleading term? There is no such condition as concussion apart from ordinary shock. To confine a fanciful stupor or coma from that cause, in the presence of possible fracture of the skull or bleeding within the skull, is simply sacrificing the patient's chance of recovery by prompt surgical intervention. An imaginary "concussion" drifting along for days without an interval of consciousness is almost certainly skull fracture; in such circumstances it is wise to forget the "concussion" and tune up the trephine.

Just paste this little note somewhere in your medicine cupboard or your scrapbook: "There is no such condition as 'concussion of the brain'; that is what makes it such a dangerous condition to have."
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A Good Diagnosis
Twenty-six, married, 65 inches tall and weigh only 105. Can you tell me how to add more weight? I am healthy—never had a doctor except when vaccinated and when my baby came. I think you are right not to tell people the symptoms of anything—they are quite likely to imagine they have them.—D. R.
Answer—Yes, symptoms are terribly catching. I can send you some suggestions for gaining weight if you will repeat your request and inclose a stamped self addressed envelope.
Nose Straightening
I am 18 years of age. Could an operation be performed to straighten my nose? Would I be taking a great chance, and would you advise it?—L. J. M.
Answer—That is the only way a nose can be straightened. I have no way of knowing whether such an operation would be advisable in your case.
Washing The Hair
So many different opinions—please tell me how often a girl should wash her hair?—R. A.
Answer—Once or twice a month. In some cases the hair needs washing once or twice a week. (Copyright, National Newspaper Service.)

We need babbler at the six places indicated in "Seen, Heard and Imagined's" Program for a Greater Appleton, because this is the hottest summer since we back in 1922; because 22,391 Appletonians and 6,143 visitors have a perpetual thirst; because the near-beer is no where nearly as good as it used to be; because the installation wouldn't cost / the city very much; and because they'd those sufficient reasons for breaking ground on the jobs tomorrow? A contributor, "E. L. E." adds, "And, Oh! please, when we make the bubbler drinking fountains, let's make them with a place for dogs to drink from at the base. They have them so in Madison, and every dog is 100% loyal to the town."

Krupp Trapped Into Contract With Soviets
(Dr. Elias Hurwicz, in Die Neue Zeit, Stuttgart.)
"The soviet government confirms the additional clauses proposed by the Krupp Co., as well as the original contract made between the soviet government and the Krupp Co., on March 23, 1922. With this confirmation negotiations between this government and the German concern are ended and the result is an agreement favorable to both the sovietization and the German company."

Soviet newspapers thus announced the signing of a contract by which the industrially pacified Krupp Co., enters Soviet Russia. Those who know the details of the negotiations between the Bolshevik government and Krupp doubt whether this contract is really favorable to the latter. Krupp, who was forced by the treaty of Versailles to convert his industry into a more peaceful one and who chose to manufacture agricultural implements instead of guns, naturally looked toward Russia as his best prospective buyer. He sent a representative into the Bolshevik country, but the representative reported that at present and for the near future Russia was not a favorable market for agricultural machinery. He suggested that Krupp might create a market for his implements by getting a land grant from the soviet government and establishing a huge model farm. Thus Krupp might induce Russian farmers to buy.

Krupp, indeed, asked for and obtained a land grant of 150,000 hectares of good land in the southwestern part of the Don region, where Krupp and his company intended to invest 100,000,000 marks. The land was granted in March, 1922. In July of the same year the German mark fell and thus overthrew all Krupp's calculations. He therefore asked the soviet government to postpone ratification of their agreement.
Meanwhile, the mark fell still further, and Krupp finally declared that he would have to give up his land concession in Russia. The representative of the Russian trade commission in Berlin, however, declared that he could not accept Krupp's withdrawal. He threatened to sue the Krupp Co. for an enormous sum in case Krupp should really withdraw from his agreement.

Krupp gave in. He asked, however, for certain additional clauses to the contract, which might render his prospect more favorable. The grant was decreased to 25,000 hectares. A few British capitalists were permitted to participate in the agricultural enterprise, and finally Krupp and the soviet government, ratified their contract, although Krupp felt that he and his company were embarking upon a very risky undertaking.
Will Krupp profit from the enterprises? Will he lose money in it? According to the contract he has to give from 10 to 15 per cent of the net profits to the soviet government, either in cash or in kind. The Krupp grain will be valued according to the rates of the Rotterdam grain exchange. At least five or six years will pass ere the now uncultivated land of the Don region grant will yield any considerable results. The average output on the Russian soil is 50 pounds of grain per hectare, a pup equalling 40 pounds. Two mil-

Short Of Wood For Phone Poles

(From The Telephone Service Bulletin)
The principal kinds of wood used for telephone poles are eastern cedar, western cedar, chestnut and yellow pine. The eastern cedar now used for poles comes mainly from Minnesota. There are also extensive tracts in Canada and some in northern Maine. In years past enormous quantities have been cut in both the northern and southern peninsulas of Michigan and in northern Wisconsin. Locations in swamps and along streams afford favorable conditions for the growth of this timber.
Under normal conditions cedar poles require 100 to 200 years to grow. Western cedar grows on both the eastern and western slopes of the Cascade mountains and on the western slope of the Rocky mountains in the extreme northwest section of the United States and adjoining parts of Canada.
Chestnut is found principally along the Atlantic coast and in the Appalachian mountain regions. North of Virginia, chestnut has within recent years been practically exterminated by the chestnut blight. While the blight killed trees have been available for poles, this region, after being cut over, will in general, cease to be a source of future supply, at least for many years. To what extent the blight will enter the region south of Virginia, where are found the principal stands of chestnut timber, cannot be answered at the present time. Chestnut grows more rapidly than cedar, an average chestnut pole requiring 40 to 60 years to grow. Yellow pine grows principally in the South Atlantic states. Pine grows quickly, on the average taking somewhat less time than chestnut to produce poles. Chestnut, yellow pine, and western cedar are about equal in strength. Eastern cedar has about 70 per cent of the strength of these timbers.
To prolong the life of poles, the Bell system engineers have experimented extensively with various preservatives, and processes which kill the fungus growth that causes decay and tend to keep out the moisture that has been developed. Coal tar creosote has been found to be the most effective pole preservative and is extensively used, being applied by various methods either to the entire pole or to the butt.

Q. What is casinghead gasoline and why is it so called? E. C. J.

New London—A warehouse here owned by the Green Bay and Western railroad was destroyed by fire which broke out at 3:15 Tuesday afternoon from unknown causes. The loss is estimated at $4,000.

The fire department was unable to save the building, because of low water pressure due to the distance of the structure from the pumping station.

A change of wind prevented a more serious fire, as the Hamilton canning company plant and Siegel Coal company building were a few hundred feet away.

Kaukauna—The shipping Kaukauna team will meet Menasha in one of the scheduled duels of the state league Sunday afternoon on the local grounds. 2 DRAINAGE PLANS TO BE PROPOSED AT RIPARIAN MEETING

Tripp Asks Avoidance Of Hatred
In Massmeeting At Shiocton Saturday

Digging of a canal from Shiocton to Green Bay or diverting Wolf river so it will empty into Lake Shawano are two plans for flood relief which will be discussed at the public meeting of riparian land owners of the Wolf river district in Hamlin park or Odd Fellow hall at Shiocton from 10 to 5 o'clock Saturday, according to an announcement by Alan H. Tripp, president of the Association for Relief from High Water.

Plans for the control of the stage of the water to prevent floods on the tributary of the Fox river will be discussed, and these propositions will be put in definite shape and sent to the secretary of war at Washington and to Governor Blaine at Madison. The meeting is held in accordance with an agreement entered into with the state and federal governments.

John D. Mack, state chief engineer, will be chairman of the meeting, and C. H. Halbert, chief engineer of the state railroad commission, besides the two congressmen of the districts affected with high water, will be among the speakers.

"We honestly ask all riparians to bury all hatred and malice that they have towards the federal government and the waterpower interests," it is said in the call for the meeting, "as an agreement has been reached which, when put into effect, will settle our high water troubles and it is up to the riparians to stand behind the association to see that the politicians put this agreement into effect."

"Your federal and state governments are doing everything in their power in conjunction with the association to settle this perplexing question and if you have any axe to grind or any scheme or plan that you think will do away with high water from Shawano to Poygan lake, you are requested to attend this meeting."

"Two plans are to be discussed by the riparian riparians," said Mr. Tripp. "One proposal is the digging of a canal from Shiocton to Green Bay to be controlled by a gate, so as to throw the water directly into Lake Michigan, instead of letting it flow down the upper Wolf valley. The other plan is to put the Wolf river into Lake Shawano, raise the banks of the Shawano lake four feet and make that lake a reservoir for water in dry seasons. We will request that government engineers be sent here to make a survey of the flooded districts and adopt some plan for relief."

WOODMAN TEAM AT WEYAUWEGA PROGRAM

Special to Post-Crescent
Dale—A large delegation of Dale people accompanied the forester team of Woodman lodge to Weyauwega Sunday for exercises which were held there.

Miss Vira Oelke of Appleton visited her grandparents here last week. Miss Calla Griswold has gone to Madison to attend the session of the University of Wisconsin.

Two young men from Brooklyn, N. Y., students at New York university, passed through here last week en route to San Francisco on a cross country bike. They were attired in khaki and carried camping equipment. They were given a ride from Appleton to Dale by Harold Grossman. They obtained rides most of the way west, because they had been on the road only ten days.

FURS AND MYSTERY

By A. CARSTENSEN
COYPU (Nutria)

Nutria is a trade name for the fur of the Coypu, one of the few fur-bearing animals of South America. It is a fur which closely resembles beaver. When unharmed and dyed enough of it has been sold as beaver or seal which it can be made to imitate to mean fortunes to the unscrupulous dealers who put over the deception.

Of late, however, nutria has come into its own very largely, and this opens up a new field for the legitimate profit seekers—that of creating substitutes for it.

You can readily see, therefore, that it is a difficult thing to get in an unreliable store, good nutria fur under its own name. Many of the good and medium grades are masquerading as beaver and seal while the poor skins and the substitutes take its place.

Unlike all northern skins, nutria is cured by drying in the open air, in the direct rays of the sun, which undoubtedly has much to do with its great durability. For years it has ranked next to beaver in the manufacture of superfine, durable and costly felt hats for men.

All of this shows us that. First—nutria is a good fur. Second—like all other furs, it is of many grades. Third—it is used largely to imitate more costly furs. Fourth—it is widely imitated. And Fifth—that the test of integrity is the man to patronize every time.

Appleton Girl Leads Legion Queen Voting

About two score girls and young women are working hard in the contest to determine the most popular young woman in Outagamie county who is to be crowned queen of the American legion at the celebration here July 4. Only a few of the workers have reported to the Legion Queen headquarters, however. Of those who have reported, Miss Esther Ashman is in the lead with 2,950 votes. Miss Ashman is an Appleton young woman.

Several candidates in the north part of the county, who have not as yet reported, are said to have large numbers of votes. Miss Ashman received 250 votes free because she was the first to report the sale of 2,500.

ON THE SCREEN

"CHRISTIAN" SCENES A REGULAR COOK'S TOUR

As good as a Cook's tour of England was a view of the fourteen reels of film brought back by the Goldwyn company which went abroad to film exteriors for "The Christian," the Goldwyn picture which is being shown at the Elite for the last time today, in which Richard Dix, Mae Busch, Phillis Haver, Gareth Hughes were being directed by Maurice Tourneur.

The unedited film included as a background for the stirring drama of the story, scenes on the Isle of Man, beautiful views of Epsom Downs race-track on Derby Day, the cloistered gardens of Kensington, Houses of Parliament, Whitehall and the river Thames, Cambridge, historic Trafalgar Square, where big mob scenes were staged by permission of the London Council; Whitechapel, and Soho, the slum section used to establish "atmosphere" in contrast to that of Piccadilly and the Strand. Of course all of this film could not be used in the final result but enough has been retained to give spectators a good idea of England and the Isle of Man. Hall Caine, the author of the novel, wrote the scenario on which the present adaptation was based. The novelist also worked with the Tourneur company, helping them to find the most suitable locations and generally using his influence in their behalf. The company was ten weeks making the trip and procuring the necessary scenes.

WHEELER OAKMAN IS "SILPPY MCGEE"

It was the first time that a girl of that kind had spoken to him. She stood there radiant in her Southern beauty beneath the moss-draped trees. It was his first encouragement, his first hope for better things. "Silppy McGee," America's cleverest safe cracker, was had because he never had known any good. But this was the turning point. As the girl saved him, he in turn saved her, even if he did have to turn safe-cracker again for one night to do it.

"Silppy McGee" is Marie Conway Oemler's story of human salvage, a story that has been read in book form in tens of thousands of American homes. The pictureization is by Oliver Morosco, a guarantee that the story has lost nothing in its screen telling by this master of the drama. "Silppy McGee" is the First National attraction at the Elite Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Morosco deftness in the handling of this story of wholesomeness with its lolling Southern atmosphere, tense moments and human makeup, has been assisted by a "typical Morosco star cast." In the title role is Wheeler Oakman, who reaches a new triumph as the crook whom fate trapped and the priest, a girl and the butterflies tamed. Sam de Grasse is the priest, while Coleen Moore is the girl. Others in the cast are Pat O'Malley, Edwin Stevens, Lloyd Whitlock, Edith Yorke, Evelyn Selbie, Alfred Allen, Robert E. Dunbar, Charles E. Evans, Nellie Peck Saunders and Little Wanda Phelps.

RUSSIA IN NEED OF 220,000 TRACTORS

By Associated Press

Moscow—Faced on the one hand with a nationwide need for auto trucks and tractors, and on the other with a struggling home industry in the manufacture of these machines, the government departments directing the foreign trade policy of Soviet Russia have not yet made up their minds whether they should stand for free trade or a protective tariff.

Russia has little money to spend for trucks and tractors abroad, but some day hopes to be able to supply every community with at least one farm tractor. Before the State Plan commission it was declared recently that, during the next ten years, the nation would need 220,000 twenty horsepower tractors, but only 50,000 could be purchased abroad. The remainder will have to be secured elsewhere. Russian factories are now turning out a few tractors, and these are said to be of excellent capacity. Those favoring protection of this infant industry want a high tariff on tractors from abroad.

Several hundred tractors have been brought to Russia by various agricultural colonists and some foreign relief organizations, but they are sufficient only to replace an infinitesimal percentage of the horses and other draft animals who died by the hundreds of thousands during the recent famine.

IT'S FOR THE ELECT

You have to be a banker or successful business man to take up radio in Germany. For, under present conditions, the radio fan is taxed half a million marks annually for broadcasting service.

Because of this high cost, mostly banks and industrial organizations are subscribing to a regular news broadcasting service in Germany. A private company in Berlin is sending international news from the Koennigs wusterhausen radio station, which it receives through the Nauen plant for the large stations in the United States, Sweden, Switzerland and other countries.

Besides news of general interest, there are financial items from New York, London, Paris and Berlin. The broadcasting lasts for two and one-half hours, every morning and evening.

Subscribers rent their receiving sets from the broadcasting company. For this they pay 200,000 marks annually, and for the service the annual fee is 300,000 marks.

Penbrook Resident Tells About Her Remarkable
Recovery

MRS. ANNIE PAGE

Mrs. Annie Page, highly esteemed resident of 3233 Main Street, Penbrook, Pa., is another who is enjoying splendid health as a result of the Tanlac treatment.

"What Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. Page, "is too wonderful for words to express. For six or seven years I had been troubled with rheumatism in my arms. I couldn't even wash the dishes, or peel the potatoes, and, in fact, my arms were just about useless."

"My health was also bad otherwise. My stomach was all out of order. I couldn't get a good night's sleep and often had dizzy headaches. I had just about given up hope of ever getting well."

"But Tanlac helped me from the start and now I haven't a rheumatic pain or an ailment of any kind. I eat and sleep like a child, and while I am 63, I don't feel a bit over 40. Nothing is too good to say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Need Uniform Laws To Correct Divorce Evil

BY MARION MALE

New York—Uniform federal marriage and divorce laws are the first step necessary to correct the present divorce evil, according to Mrs. Edward Franklin White, deputy attorney general of Indiana.

She has the distinction of being the author of the new proposed marriage and divorce law to be enacted by Congress after the adoption of an amendment to the constitution authorizing Congress to enact legislation on the subject.

"At the present time," she explains, "no two states in the United States have the same laws regarding marriage and divorce."

"Grounds for divorce vary from none in South Carolina and one in New York to 11 in New Hampshire. North Carolina recognizes two causes and Tennessee, the adjoining state, recognizes 10, but neither state recognizes the laws of any other state with regard to the marriage status."

DISCREPANCIES NOTED

"Today a person may be legally married in one state and a bigamist in another. A child legitimate in one state may become illegitimate if it goes into another."

"She points out also the disparity in marriageable age. It varies from 12 to 14 for the girl and 14 for the boy to 18 and 21, respectively. Seventeen states fix no age."

"In many states the qualifications of good health, mental fitness, financial independence and the absence of relationship are not insisted upon. 'Yet if these subject to transmissible diseases or epilepsy marry, diseased children are the result. The union of mental defectives increases the number of public dependents.'"

MRS. WHITE'S BILL

The registration of marriages is as important as that of births, Mrs. White believes.

Her uniform marriage and divorce bill recognizes five causes for divorce: Adultery, cruel and inhuman treatment, abandonment, incurable insanity and conviction for an infamous crime.

It provides for divorce decrees to be interlocutory for one year, during which time marriage with another is prohibited. It provides that children born out of wedlock may be legitimated by subsequent compliance with the law.

"But," she concluded, "it contains no provision which is not in use in some state and contains many that have been demanded by various states as a remedy for their particular ills."

LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE GAY LITTLE MARQUISE, IN CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I wonder, gay little Marquise, if it is really true that "this dear place of silence," which has kept all your secrets, will keep mine. For you know I am the next woman who has found her way into it.

I am going to "disgorge my over-charged heart" to you, little Marquise. Because you have been so long dust—only dust and memories—I know you will keep my secrets if, at the end of my life, I do as you did and burn these letters one by one, leaving the secret drawer to the next woman who finds it. (She will have to find it as I will never give up your secret.)

I wonder if you were always happy, if your "angry lover" never spoke to you in anger.

Perhaps he did not for you never married him, you know.

A note of annoyance never came into Jack's voice before we were married. Now, however, with the best intentions in the world, I have made Jack so angry with me that he has hardly spoken to me for three days.

I still think that he is quite as much to blame as I because he would have nothing to do with the settling of our home; because he would not let me consult him as to prices.

He seemed to think that I should know everything about housekeeping, house furnishing, house budgets and how to spend money economically, as he does about advertising.

Oh, gay little Marquise, did you ever have to bring such a sordid thing as money into your love? If you did, I know that many times Cupid perched himself upon this secret drawer and let the tears drop from his streaming eyes and run down his little naked body.

I expect often you felt like passing him over your dainty scrap of a lace handkerchief if it wasn't so wet with your own tears.

Oh, little Marquise, I wonder if you found out the truth of what some woman who came after you has said that "one must shed gallons of tears before one comes to know that nothing or go one in this world is worth one."

I have pretty nearly shed my gallon, I think, but I haven't come yet to thinking that Jack isn't worth a tear. When I think how cross he has been to me, my eyes overflow again. They have been all swollen and red for a long time and Jack never noticed it.

All began when I showed him the lease of the apartment. Jack came home three nights ago evidently feeling splendid. He had made a wonderful contract that day and the first thing he said to me was that he was sure of a raise in his salary.

I thought this would be a good time to show him the house and incidentally the lease and so I said, "I have got another lovely surprise for you. Jack. The house is all ready. We can move into it tomorrow. I want you to come over and see it this evening and while you are at the office I'll make out your clothes order."

"That's splendid, Leslie," he said, and after dinner we started.

I little knew to what.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Baile

Mister Tatters

The Twins stood looking at the little fairy with eyes that nearly popped out of their heads.

He had suddenly appeared from nowhere at the edge of the forest, while they were looking down into a hollow stump.

"It's the sooty smudges on your noses that have given you the right to come to Raggy Land," he said. "That stump is the chimney of one of our homes and the ground you are standing on is the roof of Raggy Land is under the ground, same as Brownland."

"Thank you for telling us about everything," said Nancy politely. "Are you a Raggy Lander?"

"Well, I should say so!" answered the fairy. "Can't you tell by my clothes? All Raggies wear old ragged things. Would you like to go down into Raggy Land and meet some of my friends? My name is Tatters, Mister Tatters."

"Oh, yes indeed," answered Nick. "But I have a letter to post first."

Nancy, you wait here and I'll be back in two minutes."

After he went to the hickory-tree postoffice and gave his letter to Mr. Straps, the little fairy postman.

While he was waiting, Nancy started to wipe the smudge off her nose with her handkerchief.

"No, don't!" cried Tatters quickly. "If you do, you cannot go to Raggy Land. Only people who have smudges of magic soot are allowed in. Whatever you do, don't wipe the smudge off."

"A right!" answered Nancy. "I'll tell Nick."

Just then Nick returned.

"Now we're all ready to go," said Tatters. "Just come to the edge of this moss roof and we'll climb down this thick creeper vine. I'll go first and you follow."

Soon they all stood on a queer little street of a queer little town.

"Welcome to Raggy Town in Raggy Land," said Tatters. "I'll show where my friends are."

SUMMER CARE FOR BABY

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the last of a series of articles on summer care of babies, prepared especially for The Post-Crescent readers by the U. S. Public Health Service.

A baby must keep regular hours. His bath, feeding, outing, play time, nap, going to stool, everything, in fact, should be carried on with as much care, precision and regularity as is necessary with any fine machine.

The following every-day program (n. of course, be modified to suit special conditions:

Six a. m.—Baby's first nursing. Family breakfast. Children off to school.

Nine a. m.—Baby's bath and second nursing. Sleep till noon.

Twelve m.—Baby's noon meal. Out-of-door airing. Nap. Three p. m.—Afternoon nursing. Period of waking.

Six p. m.—Baby's supper and bed.

Ten to twelve p. m.—Baby's night meal. Sleep till six a. m.

The child develops fastest during the first year of his life. Medical authorities agree that he needs 18 to 20 hours sleep during his first month; 16 hours during the next 11 months; and 12 hours during the next year.

"EARLY TO BED"

He should have his longest sleep at night. If he has been properly trained he will sleep after his night nursing till the next morning.

A baby's increase in weight is a reliable index to his health. After the first week the loss of a pound or two means much to a baby. When he fails to gain or loses, even for one week, it usually means that something is wrong with him or with his food. Whatever it is, it should be remedied at once. Delay may be dangerous. The young mother should weigh her baby every week for nine months, every two weeks for the next three months, and once or twice a month till he enters school. There are tables that show the average rate of normal increase, but regular increase is more important than conforming to a table, and, of course, perfectly normal babies may differ.

HAS TO CRY

All crying is not bad; baby needs to do a certain amount of it in order to develop his lungs. But remember that he cannot talk and that it is up to his mother to learn his language and know what is troubling him. All babies have certain ways of telling for instance.

A low, whimpering cry, sometimes accompanied by sucking the fingers or lips, indicates hunger—or indigestion, caused by over-feeding. Probably you will know which.

Fretful crying means that baby is sleepy or uncomfortable. A tepid sponge bath and gentle rub, or a change of clothing, or even a mere change of position may probably make him comfortable. If it does not, consult the doctor. The child may be ill.

A lusty cry, sometimes rising to a shriek and tears in the eyes, usually means colic or pain in colic the knees are drawn up, in both colic and other pains the fists are likely to be clenched.

UNDERSTAND TONES

A low moaning or wail, sometimes with a turning of the head from side to side means a sick baby. Unusual flushing or pallor, sleeplessness, listlessness, loss of appetite, profuse sweating, peevishness, vomiting, or diarrhea signal that something is wrong.

Don't handle baby too much; his bones bend easily and his muscles get sore and painful, hindering after eating upsets his digestion. And, strange as it may seem to old-fashioned nurses, jolting, bouncing and rocking are apt to make a child excitable and nervous.

Baby's muscles get very tired if he lies too long in one position. When he is taken up for any reason, his position should be changed. But always keep his head and back straight and his arms and legs free. Never throw him over your shoulder.

JULY FOURTH SALAD
By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Wash one salad plant of head lettuce, escarole or chicory, and chill. Wash, scrape and cut into thin slices one stalk celery with white part of root attached. Wash two sweet green peppers, remove seeds and parboil for five minutes. Chill and cut into strips. Skin three tomatoes and chill, then cut into slices.

To one-fourth cup cream, beaten until stiff, add one-fourth cup mayonnaise, one tablespoon vinegar, one half teaspoon salt, one half teaspoon paprika and a little black pepper.

Mix the celery, peppers and tomatoes. Garnish with the green salad and pour over all the dressing.

VEGETABLE SALAD

For this salad, which is so pleasing in the summer, use any combination of vegetables which you have, always with an eye to color. For instance, fresh cooked green peas, new carrots cut into thin slices, and potatoes cut into large cubes, make a good mixture. Mixle seasoned dressing of oil, vinegar, salt, paprika, mustard and finely chopped onion. Pour a little over each vegetable, and allow to stand in a cold place until time to serve.

Arrange on a platter, having peas in center, carrots at one end and potatoes at the other end of the dish. Garnish with lettuce or watercress.

Cut out with a jumble or doughnut cutter. Spread half of these with raspberry, currant or some good red jelly, and place the unspriced cakes on top of the spread ones. Press the edges together and bake on greased tins.

Read Stars To Find When You Should Marry

Beacon, N. Y.—No woman should marry before she's 25," warns Marion Meyer Drew, astrologer.

"Planetary formations prove that her judgment begins to mature only at this period and before this she is scarcely able sanely to choose a congenial companion for life."

Mrs. Drew believes that if people had their horoscopes read nine out of ten couples would delay their marriages, and half of them would never marry at all.

"Marriage," she continues, "is an unusually interesting study from the astrological standpoint, because it can be worked out by applying general laws to specific cases."

INFLUENCE OF ZODIAC

"Unhappy marriages often result from persons marrying who are born under the same zodiacal sign. They get along well for a time, but soon here each other, because they have mistaken a temporary sameness for real love. Their ultimate discontent results from a life of monotony."

"Not that there is any sign that has a corner on all the virtues of the faults but two persons contemplating matrimony can find out if their respective planetary influences are likely to counteract each other successfully."

"Women born under Virgo, ruling from August 21 to September 21, should choose a mate cautiously. They are so critical placing undue emphasis on small matters."

"The Virgo woman is easily annoyed by cigar ashes spilled on the carpet. So she should marry a man who good naturedly ignores these things."

BEWARE OF THESE!

"Any man born within a week of March first is under a planetary influence which is almost certain to break up home life either for emouonal, financial or other reasons. "Some women are born under signs that indicate the probability of more than one marriage. Others women of Taurus or Scorpio rarely acquire two husbands. These are the women whose lives are severely affected if they meet with disappointment in love."

"Planetary conditions have quite as much to do with happy marriages as do mothers-in-law, short bank accounts, ignorance—and rumps," she concludes.

GUNNER AND JIMMY RARING TO GET AT EACH OTHER JULY 4

Each Of Independence Day Principals Out For K. O. Decision

Gunner Joe Quinn was considerably surprised and riled when Jimmy Nuss fought him to a draw in their last meeting, and is determined to stop at no headline newspaper decision in their Appleton contest next July 4. Their last battle was an excellent fight and showed that Nuss had improved wonderfully and has become a dangerous mauler. The Gunner had been going along nicely until he met Nuss, and was disagreeably surprised when Nuss answered the bell for the tenth round, still going strong, for he had never believed for a minute that it would be possible for the Wisconsin fighter to stand up under his attack for the limit. Therefore, he is now perfecting his K. O. punch under the guidance of Mike Gibbons, training for the hardest fight of his career. He claims he underestimated Nuss of their last meeting, but will know how to go after him this time, and will be trying and waiting for his chance every minute of the battle.

While the Gunner is knocking the tar out of his sparring partners, Nuss is not lying idle. He was in the best possible condition for his bout with Wilson, and is keeping that way for his battle here. He also is out for a knockout decision, and says he will surely get it this time.

STATE LEAGUE NOTES

Brautigan, the Appleton manager is playing a bang up game at third base for his club. He still is able to cover plenty of ground around the base and isn't afraid to go and get them. At bat, 'Brauty' is still just as dangerous as he ever was and he generally hits in the pinches.

LeRoy will win a lot of games in the State league. That is the opinion of Empire State McGinn after working behind the veteran Redskin in Sunday's tilt at the Twin Cities. Although he allowed a dozen hits, the former big leaguer beat the Neenah-Menasha Pals 5 to 4.

Faris, the Red Sox outfielder, is turning in a good job of first basing for the Fond du Lac club since Byrnes was released. Faris is on his toes every minute and appears able to grab 'em on all sides. It is impossible to make a pitcher sack in a day but Faris is improving rapidly.

Sheboygan's recruit pitchers, Gott sacker and Ashenbrenner were pretty roughly treated in Saturday's game at Neenah-Menasha. The Pals got to them for twenty hits and the same number of runs.

Wittig, a newcomer in the Kaukauna fold, turned in a good exhibition of ball in his first appearance in a Stumpie uniform. Batting against Buster Braun, he popped out a pair of bingles in five times up besides playing classy ball both in center field and at second base.

Brundage, who was released by Oshkosh, starred for Fond du Lac in Sunday's game against the Sawdust City clan. He nicked Dick Kerr's brother for two timely swats and he made a sensational running catch that opened the eyes of the Oshkosh fans. He is now a fixture with the Red Sox machine.

Braby, the Neenah-Menasha second sacker, fattened his batting average considerably over the weekend. In Saturday's game with Sheboygan, he got four hits in six times up while on Sunday at Marinette-Menominee he got a trio of bingles in four jaunts to the rubber. Braby also is fielding well.

Puzzling Play's

By Billy Evans

When a batsman is hit by a slowly pitched ball there is usually an argument over the right of the batsman to take first base.

On such a play last summer the ruling of the umpire in granting the batsman first base and permitting the winning run to be forced over the plate, caused one team to leave the field, forfeiting the game.

With the bases filled and two balls and two strikes on the batsman the pitcher tried to fool the batsman by slipping him a slow ball.

It was a slow curve on the inside, that the batsman attempted to avoid in the opinion of the umpire. When the ball just grazed the batsman's person, the umpire granted the batter first base, forcing this winning run over.

The team in the field contended a batter had no right to first base when hit by a slowly pitched ball.

Garey Is Worthy To Succeed Clarke

BY BILLY EVANS

The retirement of Fred Clarke, one of the greatest outfielders in the history of baseball, was deplored as he put it "Until I can find a capable successor."

A mighty hitter for 14 seasons during his career with the Louisville Colonels, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, Clarke felt himself reaching the tapered edges in 1909 but he was forced to "hold on" for several more years. His successor had not arrived—not until the spring of 1911 when Max Carey was brought in from the South Bend Club of the Central League.

"There's a boy who will wear my shoes next season," remarked Clarke to Tommy Leach. Honus Wagner, George Gibson and other Pirate stars "He's good enough to take my place right now."

Little did Clarke dream that 12 years later Carey would remain in the Pirates' outfield and continue to make good Clarke's glowing opinion of his worth, a real star.

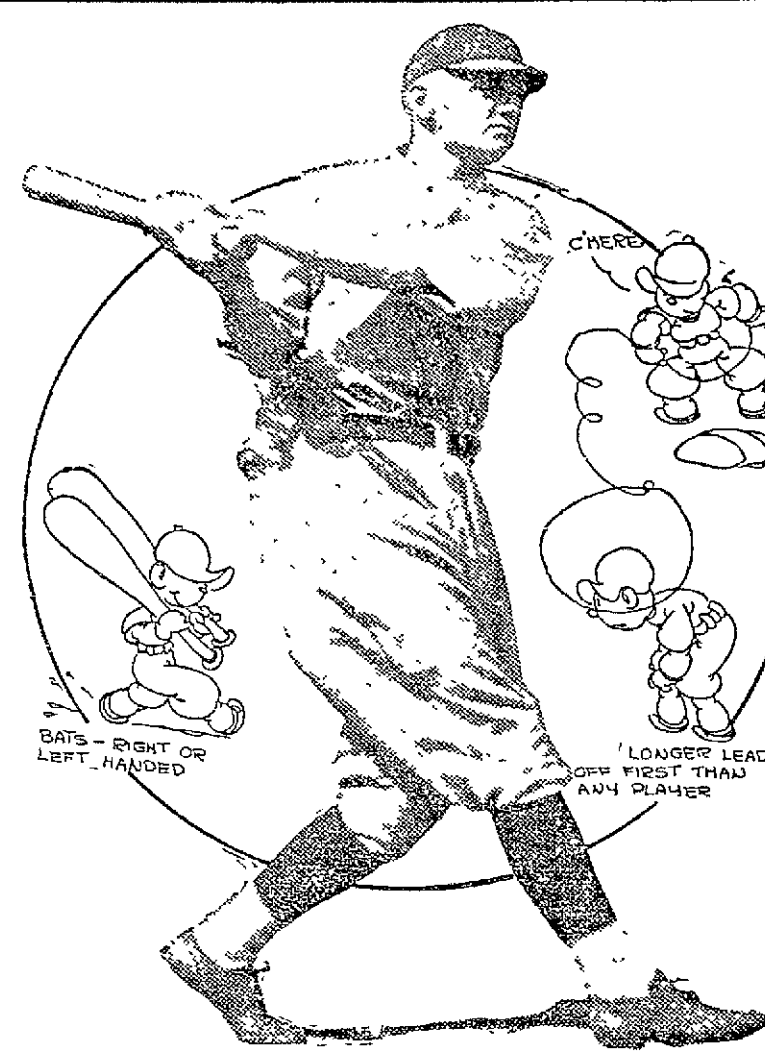

Clarke, a brilliant outfielder himself did not want to turn his territory over to a misfit. And he didn't. Max Carey deserves a high place in the ranking of great outfielders.

HE'S GREAT BASE RUNNER Carey has become the successor to Bob Bescher as the National League's greatest base stealer. He has never approached Cobb's remarkable season of 1915 when Tris pifered 96 sacks but annually he tops the National Leaguers for stolen bases.

Carey insists that all ball players should be good base runners. "There's nothing difficult to study," remarks Max. "Just get your lead, watch your pitcher and then go."

That's all Max does. He gets a bigger lead than anybody in the National League. And the guess is he has made a study of this particular branch of the game. The fact that in 53 attempts to steal a base last year, he was successful 51 times gives you some idea of Carey's ability.

MUST GET BIG LEAD "It's all in the lead and breaking with the start of the pitch," explains Carey. "Great speed is not essential to be a good base runner, although it helps. You must use your head as well as your feet."

MAX CAREY

Carey does not belong to the fence-busting class of hitters. He is more of a scientific hitter than a fence-buster. He crowds the plate, chokes the bat and just aims to meet the ball with a solid crash.

Carey's old plans were to become a minister, as he attended Concordia Seminary in St. Louis in 1908-1909. However, joining the Seminary's ball team he was urged to give up the ministry for baseball and he entered the professional field in 1909 with South Bend in the Central League, starting out as a shortstop.

In 1910 he shifted to the outfield and he has been there ever since. He is one of the few batters who bats effectively from both sides of the plate.

NEW YORK DEFEATS QUAKERS, 6-3, IN 8TH STRAIGHT WIN

Hargrave Poles Pill Into Bleachers In Fourteenth, Winning, 4-3 For Reds

By Associated Press Chicago — The procession kept advancing in the National league Tuesday with noisy precision. New York, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati won, and Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago lost. Rame prevented Boston's game with Brooklyn.

It was the eighth consecutive victory for the Giants. The Quakers made noble pretensions for eight innings and then flopped in the manner of and as flat as a flapjack, 6 to 3.

Pittsburg has had an easy time so far this season with St. Louis, the team supposed in the procession to keep the Pirates out of second place. The Pirates used three of their best pitchers and killed off a ninth inning rally to win, 7 to 5.

Bubbles Hargrave made a big contribution to another Cincinnati victory over Chicago making the winning run of a 14-inning battle, 4 to 3 by knocking the pill into the bleachers. The day before, his home run blow was what really won for the Reds. The Reds have now settled the third place controversy.

Old Jack Quinn scored another personal triumph over the Yanks. He has lost to them only once since Miller Huggins sent him to the Red Sox two years ago. With the help of Chick Fewster, another Yankee cast-off, Quinn scored a triumph over the league champions, 3 to 1, and as Philadelphians swarmed for Washington pitchers winning, 16 to 7, the Yank lead was cut down to five games.

Detroit closed its White Sox series by settling the controversy over leadership of the second division, winning 7 to 6, through hard hitting. Cleveland defeated the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 1.

"Hack" Miller of the Chicago Nationals is playing a great game in the field, but his hitting in the past few days has fallen off. He saved the game for his mates several times in the final contest with the Cincinnati Reds but could not jump enough to spear Hargrave's drive, which cleared the left field fence in the fourteenth inning.

The Cincinnati club had another cripple added to its hospital list. "Babe" Pinelli, star third baseman, was spiked on the ankle and it required eight stitches to close the wound. Caveney is expected back in the lineup in a day or two.

6 CREWS MEET THURSDAY IN REGATTA ON HUDSON

By Associated Press Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Six crews five of the East and one from the far West, start on the Hudson Thursday in the 26th championship regatta. A rowing event rivalled in interest only by the Yale-Harvard four-mile pull on the Thames at New London. The champion Naval Academy boat, victor in 1921 and 1922, will be filled with another great crew of oarsmen. The University of Washington shell, second only to the Navy in last year's event, again will have a strong eight handling its sweeps. Coach Rice's Columbia university crew, one of the best in years, and the crews of Syracuse, Cornell, and Pennsylvania are the other entries.

BRAUTIGANS FACE FORMER MATES IN FOND DU LAC GAME

Sunday's Game Determines Whether Appleton Is To Lead League

Having climbed within a half game of the league leading Green Bay team, the Papermakers will attempt to keep up their good work Sunday and reach the topmost rung of the ladder. It is reasonable to expect that they will succeed, for they will be pitted against the present occupants of the cellar berth, who have the lowest in fielding average in the circuit. Earl Howard, however, is a pitcher to be feared when he is in form. Howard is an old hand at the game but he has been rather unfortunate thus far this season.

The Brautigans will be faced by two former team mates in Howard and Duran. The Fond du Lac third base man, The latter has been connecting with the ball quite regularly of late.

NEWMAN'S RIVALS LOSE TO DEPERE

Appleton's new Home Players club started their baseball career last Sunday by losing 20 to 8 to DePere. Being without their regular catcher, Newman's outfit permitted a number of the DePere batsmen to run it out after being whiffed by Newman's puzzling twisters. This coupled with several errors arising from the inexperience of the new team in organized ball playing, and the hard hitting of the DePere aggregation, caused the total score of the hostiles to mount as it did.

Money of No Value

"Life had no pleasures for me. Although I had plenty of money it was of no value as my stomach almost constantly distressed me. I lost faith in all doctors and medicine. Talking with my druggist about my case he advised me to try May's Wonderful Remedy. I am now enjoying life again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale at all druggists. adv.

WIRES BURN OUT AT INSURANCE-BLDG

Firemen Tuesday evening answered a summons to extinguish what appeared to be fire on the roof of the insurance-bldg. It was found that some of the electric wiring of the dynamo in the penthouse over the elevator burned out, probably due to a short circuit. There was no damage other than a crack in the switchboard. The flame of sparks on the building attracted the attention of residents living west of the building who immediately notified the fire department.

Two electrical disturbances occurred at the Bonini and Voelckers meat markets on College-ave during the thunderstorm Monday evening, the fire department was informed Tuesday. A fire of lightning burned out a motor fan at the Bonini market and some of the wiring in the Voelckers market. The trouble was not noticed until the next morning.

ELKHORN MAN SAYS BLAINE LETTER FALSE

by the governor as the tax fight was put over, which he declared appeared to be an attempt to hold a club over the senator to control his vote.

"You try to get away from the charge I made, namely, that corrupt means were used in attempting to control my vote. I fail to find a single instance of this senator's conduct which was not an emissary from you. The fact still remains that the officer made the statements which I quoted on the floor, that I should go down and talk over the appointment with the governor and the fact that I could get anything asked for if I would agree to vote for your tax bill.

"Moreover, he is the same officer who took a senator out for a chicken dinner which lasted three days, while the senate was under a call. This same officer was a former resident of your home city and the senator was found in his company at a summer resort near Escobedo, your former home."

Senator Ridgway declared that at the special session of the legislature in 1922, Governor Blaine had threatened to go into the legislature and campaign against him unless he voted for removal of the income tax secrecy clause.

TAX SQUABBLES

"I think I may say further," he declared, "that the position in which the Progressive Republicans now find themselves is your fault; you have constantly sought to dictate legislation. With a tax bill pending in each house, prepared and introduced by well known Progressives, you insisted on sidetracking those bills until one could be prepared by you, which came to be referred to as the 'Blaine Bill,' and which bill you insisted was the only bill based upon scientific principles, and concerning which you stated that to change it in any way would render it unworkable.

"When it became evident that your bill could not be passed, a conference was called and a new bill drafted for which I voted, and it only failed of passage because of the refusal of some of your closest friends in the senate to vote for it. Too much interference by the chief executive in legislative matters always leads to dissension, of which the present mixup is but an illustration."

FLIVVER SEES LAST DAYS IN ACCIDENT

A Ford car probably saw its last days after an automobile accident on the Hortonville road near the farm of Edward Zell Sunday. Although only the front axle and fender were damaged, the owners apparently considered the vehicle too old to retain. The young men, who said they were from Kaukauna, came to remove the tires and other part of the car Monday afternoon, and left the chassis and body at the Zell farm. It was not known whether the car had a license plate, not.

CIRCUS DAY WAS AN ORDERLY ONE

Mishaps And Complaints Are Not Heard By Police On Show Day

Circus day passed without the mishaps and complaints usually reported to the police. One employee of the Walter L. Main circus while helping unload one of the circus wagons from the train at the Northwestern depot was struck on the leg by a wagon that slipped down the incline, and although the force of it caused him to turn several somersaults, he was not injured.

Spectators waiting for the parade on Washington-st Tuesday noon were much amused when the facetious performer on the steam callopie struck up the tune, "Here comes the bride," as a bridal party passed in an automobile.

The circus was shown on the city's newly acquired property in block 82 which will be the site of the west end junior high school; hence the city derived double revenue from the exhibition, the customary license and the rental of the grounds.
